Andrew Hunkele

Lab Documentation

I installed Android studios on my personal computer. I then downloaded the example project file and put it on my desktop. From there, I opened android studio and opened the file with it.

From there I chose the selected class I wanted to run and ran it against an emulated phone device. I am not sure how to run it without emulating a device, however.

Then finally the ran class.